

Players' leaflets for Paris

la Cité de la Lumière

Don't print this - the leaflet starts on next page

It isn't always convenient to pass rules to and fro.

New players often want to consult the rules, and to see ahead what their choices may be, or what restrictions apply to them.

So, from the leaflet, each player gets ...

phases of play described

a guide to postcards

a reminder of how scoring works

Printing

They're created at A5 size, which is half of A4.

The easiest way to print, using A4 paper, may be to slice it in half first, then use it as A5 sheets.

A4 is longer than letter size, but not so wide. I have not tried the leaflets out on letter sized paper.

For two players who enjoy the cut and thrust of a trick taking game, this is of incomparable value

Levitation

Lift one building piece from your reserve and exchange it with one from the supply.

Play the newly acquired one immediately, following the normal rules.

Metropolitain

Claim the postcard for use later: that's this turn taken.

Later, when you choose, place a building. ▶▶ it can be used in conjunction with the Jardin, or Bouquinistes, or Levitation.

Importantly, part of the building may cover a streetlight space, including the Lampadaire or la Grande Lumière.

Bouquinistes de la Seine

Immediately place the annex piece onto a cobblestone of your colour (not the purple) so that it edges onto and expands one of your buildings.

Endgame - being a building, it may earn points.

Le Penseur

Immediately place the Statue on a cobblestone of your colour.

There must be at least one free space directly in front of it.

Endgame - get 2 points for each empty cobblestone of any colour that adjoins its sides, and 1 for each that joins it diagonally.

If the space in front of le Penseur is occupied by anything or anyone (other than a streetlight) there are no points.

▶ The aim is to create buildings that are illuminated by streetlamps.

In the first phase, players lay down street tiles, and gather buildings to use later. Tiles vary in content ~ street lamps, players'-coloured cobbles, and wildcard-cobbles.

Once tiles are laid, players place their buildings, and use postcards to get extra assistance.

▶▶▶ The first to place all their tiles in the first phase starts phase two.

How play proceeds

Phase 1 - laying the groundwork for building - do one thing in each turn

Either place a street-tile (on any space on the board) or take a building for use later.

This phase ends when all the tiles have been laid. If one player's placed all theirs but the other has more to play, they can pass their turn or collect a building: it's their choice.

Phase 2 - building - do one thing each turn

Either place a building (and chimney) or activate a postcard - placing an action token on it.

Game ends when neither can place more buildings and all action tokens have been used.

Placing buildings

Buildings are placed on the cobbled squares showing a player's own colour, or the purple squares ~ these are a kind of 'wildcard' (or wild cobble).

This rule applies to actions permitted by postcards, unless the postcard states otherwise.

Place a chimney on buildings to show whose they are. This includes the Jardin des Plantes - which blocks light and impedes artists and dancers.

Scoring - at the end

A - each building, points come from the number of streetlights (including la Grande Lumière) lighting its edges, multiplied by the number of squares it covers.

B - For each square occupied by your largest building group (all buildings that have a side touching) gain 1 point. Each building that was gathered but not placed incurs a 3 point penalty.

C - Check the postcards and apply any that may enhance scores.

Postcards - check what each can do before you begin.

If you claim a card with one of your action tokens (during the second phase) you are not compelled to take its action.

You may claim it simply to get in the way of your opponent's future options. 😞

The only postcard whose whole action can be deferred is Metropolitan.

If other postcards' actions are not taken immediately, they are forfeited.

Le Peintre

Immediately place le Peintre on an empty cobblestone of your colour.

Endgame - take 2 points for every Streetlight he can walk to, including la Grande Lumière.

Buildings (he can't squeeze between adjoining corners) and the edge of the board are the only things that impede his ambling.

Lampadaire

Immediately place the streetlight tile upon a cobblestone of your colour.

La Grande Lumière

Immediately place the Grande Lumière on a streetlight space.

Endgame - for scoring purposes, all the spaces shown on the postcard become illuminated, for everybody.

Buildings will block its light, as usual.

Sacré Coeur

Endgame - the holder of this postcard will not suffer any loss of points for buildings held in reserve.

Fontaine des Mers

Place the fountain tile upon cobblestones of your colour or purple ones.

Endgame - you alone receive 3 points for each of your buildings that's in edge to edge contact with the Fontaine.

Including the Jardin des Plantes and Annexe.

Moulin Rouge

Immediately place the dancer upon a cobblestone of your colour.

Endgame - take 1 point for every cobblestone that she could dance her way to (including her own).

Streetlights, statues, and painters get in her way, as do buildings.

Jardin des Plantes

Immediately place the Jardin upon cobblestones of your colour or purple wildcards.

It's a building, so place a chimney on it. Its effects are just like other buildings, and it may bring points at the end.

Chartier

Take the purple cobblestone tile and keep it in hand for use later: the turn's finished.

Later, place the tile on an opponent's cobblestone.

Immediately use the tile to receive a building or a Fountain.

▶ the tile can be used in conjunction with actions allowed by another postcard, such as the Jardin.
